Where were you...
When the line was drawn in the sand?
Where were you...
When the truth needed feet to stand?

Were you waiting to be invited,
For a voice to call for a show of hands?
Were you waiting till you were ready,
Till it would fit inside your plans?
Where were you,
Where were you?

Where were you...
When we needed all your might?
Where were you...
When it was time to join the fight?

Were you the only one who was fearful,
When the hour was black as night?
Could you let us go on without you,
Even though the cause was right?
Where were you,
Where were you?

Where were you...
When it was time for pride to kneel?
Where were you...
When it was time for you to get real?

It was time for being honest,
It was time for you to feel!
It was time for you to break,
It was time for you to heal!
Where were you,
Where were you?
